German jazz trombonist Hansjörg Fink with organist Elmar Lehnen in their own jazz Requiem. You might enjoy it—they are fine players, and you might be taken by the notion of an instrumental Requiem in jazz style. It's not my cup of tea, partly because I don't like jazz on a small-bore trombone, piercing fortissimos, and slow and wide vibrato.

But Hansjörg Fink is certainly a very good trombonist. Elmar Lehnen is a very good organist, too, and he is playing an impressive instrument. The organ of St Marien basilica in Kvelaer was built in 1907 by Seifert. Severely damaged in WW II, its restoration was completed in 1981. 149 stops. Complete specifications are included.
