2-LP – 180 g Vinyl

Mahler's First Symphony written in 1888 burst all valid dimensions and conventions of his time. Until then nobody had dared to transform such extreme changes between feelings of apparent naïve Romanticism and total despair to music. Passages of idyllic transfiguration are disturbed by impetuous demonical outbursts and even the Finale which Mahler described as "triumphant" cannot make you forget the preceding abyss. This music seeks to raise questions not to provide answers.

Rafael Kubelik and the Bavarian Radio Symphony Orchestra take you skilfully onto a fascinating voyage of poetry and drama.

Mahler's First Symphony appears here as a live recording from the Herkules Hall of the Munich Residenz made on 2 November 1979 in 180g vinyl format.
